SDG 16.2.1 Elected representation

KARE has elected representation on the university's highest governing body. This includes elected representatives from various stakeholder groups such as faculty members, administrative staff, and student bodies, ensuring that diverse perspectives are included in decision-making processes at the institutional level.

KARE follows a decentralized and participative management in decision making.

- A bottom-up approach is adopted including all stakeholders in planning and execution of various policies.
- In its constant endeavor towards ensuring quality education, the Board of Management, provides valuable suggestions and advice towards holistic growth of the Institution.
- There are 10 Schools and 27 Departments in KARE. Each school is headed by the Dean, while the Departments by the HoD. Schools and Departments are autonomous entities which are entitled to create/amend course curriculum, conduct Program Advisory Board and Board of Studies meetings, organize regular classes, continuous assessment, student progression, research workshops, guest lectures, approve staff/student leaves, collect feedback from various stakeholders, recommend purchase of required hardware/software and maintenance of Department Association, Finances in a completely decentralized manner.
- In addition to the above, Board of Management, Academic Council, Planning and Monitoring Board and Finance Committees comprise members drawn out from various domains and these committees take active role in nurturing the growth of the university.

The following are the Statuary and non-Statuary bodies to ensure efficient Academic and Administrative Governance
