THE - Impact Rankings 2026

16 PEACE, JUSTICE AND STRONG INSTITUTIONS

16.2.4. Participatory bodies for stakeholder engagement

The university follows a collaborative approach to decision-making, involving service recipients and stakeholders in its operations whenever appropriate. This means stakeholders can share information, give feedback, take on roles, work together, and join in university projects. There are specific guidelines to include these groups in various university initiatives. This approach aims to build a strong sense of community and shared responsibility within the university. It gives stakeholders a chance to shape the university's work and direction, creating a more inclusive and cooperative environment.

KARE has following statutory and non-statutory bodies for effective leadership.

STATUTORY BODIES

- Board of Management
- Academic council
- Planning and Monitoring committee
- Finance committee
- University Research Board
- Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC)
- Board of Studies

NON- STATUTORY BODIES

- Anti-Ragging Committee
- Student Grievance and Redressal committee
- Internal Complaints Committee
- Anti-Discrimination committee
- Women empowerment Cell
