THE - Impact Rankings 2026

16.2.5 University principles on corruption and bribery

The University firmly follows a zero-tolerance policy against corruption and bribery to ensure honesty, fairness, and transparency in all its operations. It believes that integrity is the foundation of trust and excellence in education. All students, faculty, and staff are expected to follow ethical practices, avoid conflicts of interest, and reject any form of bribery or unfair advantage. Financial and administrative processes are carried out in an open and accountable manner, with proper checks and approvals at every level. The University regularly organizes workshops, seminars, and awareness programs to educate the campus community about ethical behavior and the consequences of corruption. It also encourages individuals to report unethical practices through safe and confidential channels. By promoting integrity, transparency, and accountability, the University aims to build a corruption-free environment and support the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), particularly Goal 16 — Peace, Justice, and Strong Institutions.
